ROOSEVELT DISCUSSES CIA — C. Emmet Eiler, president of the Knife and Fork Club, left, and Dr. Edward J. Molenda, right, first vice-president, welcome Kermit Roosevelt, grandson of former President Theodore Roosevelt and guest speaker at a club dinner meeting Tuesday evening. Roosevelt, who became acquainted with many world leaders in 15 years of U. S. government service, discussed "The Central Intelligence Agency and the American Way of Life." His services with the CIA, formerly the Office of Strategic Service, drew recognition from former President Dwight D. Eisenhower who awarded Roosevelt the National Security Medal.
